

TOUR OF FAIRLESS HILLS MARKS SETTING UP OF ONE-THOUSANDTH DWELLING ON 1200-ACRE TRACT

Streamlined Modern Homes to Have Accompaniment of Community Improvements, Including A Shopping Center, Town Hall and Other Community Service Buildings.

By Courier Staff Reporter

FAIRLESS HILLS, Oct. 24—Work is to start next January on a chain of municipal improvements and commercial facilities for the infant village of Fairless Hills, in Falls Township. John W. Galbreath, the builder of the community, said yesterday during the course of a press conference and tour marking the setting up of the one-thousandth dwelling on the 1200 acre tract where eventually 4000 families are to live.

Push-button living in streamlined modern homes is to have the accompaniment of community improvements which eventually are to include not only an elaborate and varied shopping center, with ten acres of parking lots, but a town hall, an assembly building, fire and police buildings, two grade schools and a high school, a large lake, a swimming pool, and acre after acre of playgrounds and recreation fields.

All necessary approval for steel and other restricted materials which are needed has been secured from the government to permit a prompt start early next year on the municipal building and some of the main store structures. Mr. Galbreath told the twenty reporters and photographers who attended the press conference, first ever held in Fairless Hills.

He showed blueprints, maps and diagrams, some of them complete and others tentative, projecting the series of community buildings, in which the traditional architecture of the Bucks County area is blended with the current trends for long, low lines principally in one-story structures.

According to Mr. Galbreath, 27 per cent of the complete village now is occupied. The thousandth house was roofed during the day, and it now appears that the 1100 planned for this year, ahead of cold weather, will be erected by early in November. Completing the interiors will take a month or six weeks longer.

Family life and community life already is well under way in the Hills. "Unit A", first to be started, a triangle lying north of the Hulmeville road and southwest of the Oxford Valley-Tullytown road, has more than a hundred families already living in it. Others are arriving almost daily. During the time the press representatives were on the tour, several moving vans and furniture trucks passed them.

Those already moved in are principally the essential engineers and other technical men needed at the new Fairless Works of U. S. Steel, four miles southeast of "Unit A", whom the steel plant asked to have permitted to rent quarters in advance of placing the houses on sale. In house after house, curtains are at the windows, glimpses are visible of lamps and other furniture. In some the brand new lawns are being cut, here and there laundry flaps in the breeze (despite the fact that inside each house is an electric "drier") and up and down the sidewalks small children are playing.

Mr. Galbreath took the newspapermen to see the first school in Fairless Hills, a temporary one-room school made out of a dwelling with most partitions removed. Yesterday was the second day for this school, and the attendance—third and fourth graders—rose from fourteen to eighteen overnight. Other houses nearby, adjoining what is soon to become a large playground, are being reserved for other school children, pending the time when the first regular school building has been completed.

Red Cross Directors Meet; Need Volunteers

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bristol American Red Cross was held at headquarters on Monday. Mrs. D. Barker Cook presided.

The need for more volunteers, in all phases of the Red Cross services, was stressed. Arrangements can be made for training Nurse's Aides, Staff Aides, Gray Ladies, by calling the local office, Bristol 3684. A motor corps is being formed in this area, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Vernon Sommers.

Mrs. James Biggin, Junior Red Cross chairman, and a new member of the Board, was introduced by Mrs. Cook.

BOY INJURED AS HE DARTS IN CAR PATH

George H. Biddle, 10, Andalusia, Remains In a Phila. Hospital

CONDITION IS "FAIR"

ANDALUSIA, Oct. 24—An Andalusia boy, George H. Biddle, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Biddle, of Bristol Pike near Buttonwood avenue, was injured yesterday afternoon by an automobile near his home.

The boy was taken to Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia, by the Bucks County Rescue Squad. Physicians, who described his condition as fair, said he suffered a possible concussion, possible fracture of the left ankle, and laceration of the chin. Four stitches were taken in the chin laceration, and X-rays were taken to determine full extent of injuries.

The driver of the car was George H. Law, 43, of the 800 block of Roland avenue, Philadelphia.

George is a 5th grade student at Andalusia school. He was en route home from the barber shop, after getting his hair cut, when, it is stated, he darted into the path of the car.

Law was driving his sedan west on Bristol Pike at the time.

"Strictly Dishonorable" To Be Featured at Grand

The hilarious story of an opera star who is forced to enter into a "marriage of convenience" serves as a captivating screen vehicle for Ezio Pinza, former star of "South Pacific," in "Strictly Dishonorable," showing at the Grand Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday.

With Janet Leigh as Pinza's co-star, the new M-G-M picture was adapted from Preston Sturges' Broadway stage hit, with the addition of sequences permitting audiences to enjoy the famous Pinza voice in both operatic and popular selections, and also with the addition of some of the slyest and most barbed wit from writers Melvin Frank and Norman Panama, who have given the screen such laugh-getters as "The Reformer and the Redhead" and "Road to Utopia," among others.

A&P's New Market Greeted By Large Crowd at Opening

The new Super Market of the A & P Company, Pond street, between Mulberry and Walnut streets, opened its doors this morning to serve a crowd of shoppers gathered to await the occasion.

The market, the last word in efficiency and comfort, for service to the public, was recently completed and the former market at Market and Pond streets has been closed.

A parking area for 90 cars is one of the features of the location.

PRIZES ANNOUNCED

Prizes for Mothers' Association card party this evening in Bristol high school cafeteria are: Basket of apples, basket of potatoes, man's sleeveless wool sweater, woman's silk blouse, 3 lb. can shortening, etc. Playing will start at 8:30.

VOTE FOR CONSOLIDATION

It may seem strange to many voters of Bucks County to find, when they go to the polls on November 6, that they are asked to help decide on the strictly Philadelphia question of whether that metropolis shall have only one government in charge of it, or two.

Yet that is the situation. The reason for it is simple enough, and logical, too; under the Pennsylvania system, all municipalities are defined and empowered primarily by the Constitution, and to change the Constitution requires the vote of all citizens, not merely those in the area affected.

What Philadelphia is seeking to do is to get rid of a dual government just as confusing as it would be if both drivers in a dual-control automobile attempted to steer the car.

Of Pennsylvania's sixty-seven counties, Philadelphia is the only one where the principal city is just as big as the county. In all the other counties, there is plenty of sense in having both a county government and a city government. That is true even in Pittsburgh, the state's second largest city, which does not occupy by any means all of Allegheny County.

But in Philadelphia the consensus of opinion for years has been that the dual control has been wasteful and disorganizing, that there have been duplications and conflicts, and gaps where neither city nor county government was able to function efficiently.

This year the matter has finally come to a showdown, and if the voters of Pennsylvania agree, Philadelphia at long last will be able to proceed with a city-county consolidation.

So far as voters in Bucks county are concerned, the issue is quite simple. If they believe in "home rule," they will be for the city-county consolidation amendment to

RECEIVES VERDICT IN 11-YEAR-OLD CASE

Mrs. Hazel S. Krom, Long Island, Awarded $3,000 Damages by Jury

BECAME HYSTERICAL

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 24 — Mrs. Hazel S. Krom, 58-year-old widow, 17 Malba drive, Whitestone, Long Island, N. Y., who began her civil court claim for $15,000 damages, following a two-car collision at Poole's Corner 11 years ago, received a verdict of $3,000 from a jury which deliberated until 6:30 o'clock Friday evening.

President Judge Hiram H. Keller presided at the trial which grew out of an automobile accident October 18, 1940, on Route 202, at Poole's Corner.

The defendants were Nan E. Phillips, 101 North 50th street, who owned the car, and C. Stevenson Cook, 49 North 52nd street, also of Philadelphia, who was driving it south on Swamp road and failed to halt his car at the "Thru-Traffic Stop" sign at the intersection.

In the original claim, Mrs. Krom, who was driving her husband's car, was suing for $15,000 and her husband, Edwin H. Krom, who died in 1945, was suing for $5,000.

Mrs. Krom, who became hysterical in court on Friday, testified that she was unable to find any of the papers, or bills, which were paid by her husband in connection with the repair and doctor's bills.

"My husband had extremely severe financial reverses before he died," Mrs. Krom testified. The jury was out three hours.

ELBOW FRACTURED

The ambulance of Bristol Blood Donors removed John Szowski, 820 Pennington avenue, Trenton, N. J., to St. Francis Hospital, Trenton, Monday. Szowski was removed from the Bristol high school athletic field where he was participating in a football game between St. Francis high school, Trenton, and Bristol. He sustained a fractured right elbow.

INTERESTING LECTURE PROGRAM PRESENTED

Natural Scientists Hear Dr. E. T. Moul, Dr. W. M. Brenner, L. S. Thomas

A NEWTOWN SESSION

NEWTOWN, Oct. 24—Stephen R. Chrym was elected president of Bucks County Natural Science Association at a meeting Saturday afternoon in Council Rock high school auditorium. Over 50 attended. John Carson, president, conducted the business meeting when the following officers were elected: Stevenson W. Fletcher, Newtown, Frederick Streland, Langhorne, Lester S. Thomas, Richboro, 1st, 2nd and 3rd vice-president, respectively; Miss Olive Balderston, treasurer; Miss Mary Cadwallader, secretary.

Mr. Chrym appointed Mrs. Paul S. Woodman, chairman of the program committee, assisted by Miss Julia Balderston and Mrs. Robert Cushman. Mrs. William R. Stuckert, who has served for 10 years in planning meetings and doing publicity work, will now serve only in an advisory position.

Eight new members were reported: Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Rowe, Miss Eleanor Wright, Mrs. Grace W. Brown, Axel Olsson, Mr. and Mrs. John Nixon, Miss Helen Williams.

Dr. Edwin T. Moul, of the Science department, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., gave an illustrated lecture on "Lichen and Mosses." These low forms of plant life are most valuable in holding moisture and forming "nurseries" where seeds of higher forms may start. A dry, almost bare rock, will support grimmia. When a little more moisture appears, the anemo-

Man Seriously Burned At U. S. Navy Air Station

JOHNSVILLE, Oct. 24 — A man was seriously and painfully burned here yesterday afternoon when a "flash-back" occurred in a boiler he was attending at the U. S. Navy Air Station.

Joseph V. DeTulio, 34, Street Road, Southampton, a laborer, suffered first, second and third degree burns of the face, hand and body. He was given first-aid at the NADC dispensary by Lt. D. L. Gordon, Medical Corps, U. S. N. DeTulio was then taken to the Abington Hospital in the Navy ambulance.

The accident occurred in Hangar 3, and quick thinking on the part of Chief Aviation Machinist J. D. Santidaci, 60 Downey Drive, Hatboro, tearing off DeTulio's clothing probably saved the man's life.

GIVE CONTRIBUTION OF $6,600 TO HOSPITAL

Gift Will Establish Private Room in Memory of Lester W. Stackhouse

LIVED HERE ALL LIFE

A subscription of $6,600 to the Lower Bucks County Hospital Building Fund, in memory of Lester W. Stackhouse, was announced today by James E. Harris, president of the hospital and chairman of the building fund.

Subscribed by Mr. and Mrs. T. Russell Stackhouse of Pennsylvania Manor, the gift will establish a private room in the medical section of the second floor of the new hospital.

Lester W. Stackhouse, to whom there will be a memorial plaque erected in the room, was a lifelong resident of Bristol Township. Born in 1896, the son of Jennie and William K. Stackhouse and grandson of John R. Stackhouse, a man well-known to older residents of Bucks County he lived for many years in the home on Mill Creek road where five generations of the Stackhouse family have lived. Well known in the community throughout his lifetime, Mr. Stackhouse attended Bristol schools and shortly after leaving Bristol High School, started to work for the Pennsylvania Railroad where he was employed as an

HARRIMAN HOSPITAL IS SOLD TO A PHILA. PHYSICIAN; IMPROVEMENTS AND ENLARGEMENTS BEING PLANNED

Dr. Morris Kramer Purchases Hospital from Dr. George T. Fox — Agreement with State is To Start with 35 Beds — To Be "Open Staff" Hospital, Each Branch Having Its Own Head, States Purchaser.

A change in ownership of the Harriman Hospital occurred late yesterday and the new owner is operating the institution today. This announcement was made this morning to a representative of The Bristol Courier by Dr. Morris Kramer, of Oak Lane, Philadelphia. The announcement was confirmed by Dr. George T. Fox, owner and operator of the institution until the change in ownership yesterday.

The new owner, Dr. Kramer, a practicing physician, in an interview with The Courier, stated that he plans to make extensive alterations and improvements to the building, also to increase the bed capacity.

Decorations for Party Follow Halloween Motif

NEWPORTVILLE, Oct. 24—Class No. 8 taught by Mrs. Fred Kohler, Sr., Newportville Presbyterian Sunday School, held a meeting and Halloween party Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Charles Potts.

Business was conducted after prayer and reading of the Scripture. Refreshments were served with decorations fitting the occasion. Others attending were Mrs. John Feehan; Mrs. William Kohler, Mrs. Patricia Berg, Mrs. Fred Wimmersberger, Jr., Mrs. Harry Backhouse, Jr., Miss Eleanor Oldham, Mrs. Jesse Headley, and Mrs. Frank Becker, of this area; and Mrs. Harry Baum, Trenton, N. J.

Improvements planned, according to the purchaser, are mainly to the surgical room, which will be enlarged. There also, tile will be installed to cover the walls from floor to ceiling. Asphalt tile will be laid on the floor of the entire building. Plans also call for enlargement of the delivery room; and new X-ray machine and new fluoroscope are to be installed. "All machines are to be replaced with modern ones. The interior and exterior of the hospital will be painted; most of the beds re-placed; and we plan to furnish

FIND MOTHER SLUMPED OVER HER SON'S CRIB

Mrs. John Monti, 36, of 349 Penn Street, Dies Within A Very Short Time

CHILD WAS ON FLOOR

A woman died shortly after being found slumped over her son's crib in her home here yesterday afternoon. The woman, believed to have been the victim of a heart attack, was Mrs. John Monti, 36, of 349 Penn street. She was found by Mrs. Gaspare Manzo, who resides on the first floor of the same dwelling.

Mrs. Manzo says that she heard the baby crying and went to the second floor to see the baby, to whom she had become very much attached.

Mrs. Monti was found slumped over the child's crib, but the baby, Ronald, 10 months old, was upon the floor. It is thought that perhaps Mrs. Monti had been attending the baby when she was stricken, and perhaps the child fell to the floor.

Bristol police were called and a physician was summoned, but Mrs. Monti died within a short time.

Mr. Monti is employed by the American Steel Bridge Company, and Mrs. Monti's father, Joseph Torcas, survives.

The body was taken to the funeral home of John Black, 314 Cedar street. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Tennessee is bounded by eight states.

"My plan is to operate a general hospital. My agreement with state authorities is to start with 35 beds until improvements are made at the rear of the hospital." He added that the license of the previous owner called for 67 beds.

"This will be an 'open staff' hospital, each branch having its own head, doctors from this area and from Philadelphia," Dr. Kramer informed. "We plan to do surgery, carry out work in obstetrics, gynecology, orthopedics, pediatrics, and also to do some research work in cancer."

Improvements planned, according to the purchaser, are mainly to the surgical room, which will be enlarged. There also, tile will be installed to cover the walls from floor to ceiling. Asphalt tile will be laid on the floor of the entire building. Plans also call for enlargement of the delivery room; and new X-ray machine and new fluoroscope are to be installed. ### Morrisville Council Defers Ordinance Action

MORRISVILLE, Oct. 24 — The Morrisville Borough Council last night deferred action on a proposed mercantile tax ordinance which would impose sanitary controls and restrictions on roadside stands and hawkers' wagons which have sprung up near the Fairless plant of the U. S. Steel Corp.

Councilman Nicholas T. Misan, who was scheduled to introduce the ordinance at the special council meeting, said he had decided to postpone the action in order to give business men an opportunity to present their views on the measure.

Misan said estimates are being made to determine the amount of the tax to be levied on retail and wholesale business in the area. A State law allows a one mill tax on annual gross retail business and one-half mill on gross wholesale business.

He said it was his intention to set a limit on the amount a business man would pay. If the millage rate was in excess of the established flat rate, he explained, the business man would not have to pay more than the flat rate.

Misan said the measure also incorporates a licensing procedure which would eliminate the "unsanitary" lunch stands and roadside hawkers along the route to the new steel plant.

Safe Food Celebrates Eleventh Anniversary

Safe Food Markets, Bucks county's largest independent food concern plans a big time today, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, with the biggest sale since they organized 11 years ago with a small market in Hatboro.

Safe Food now operates three modern markets in this area. They now are planning at least two more markets in the near future. One market is now under construction, and is to be opened about Dec. 1st.

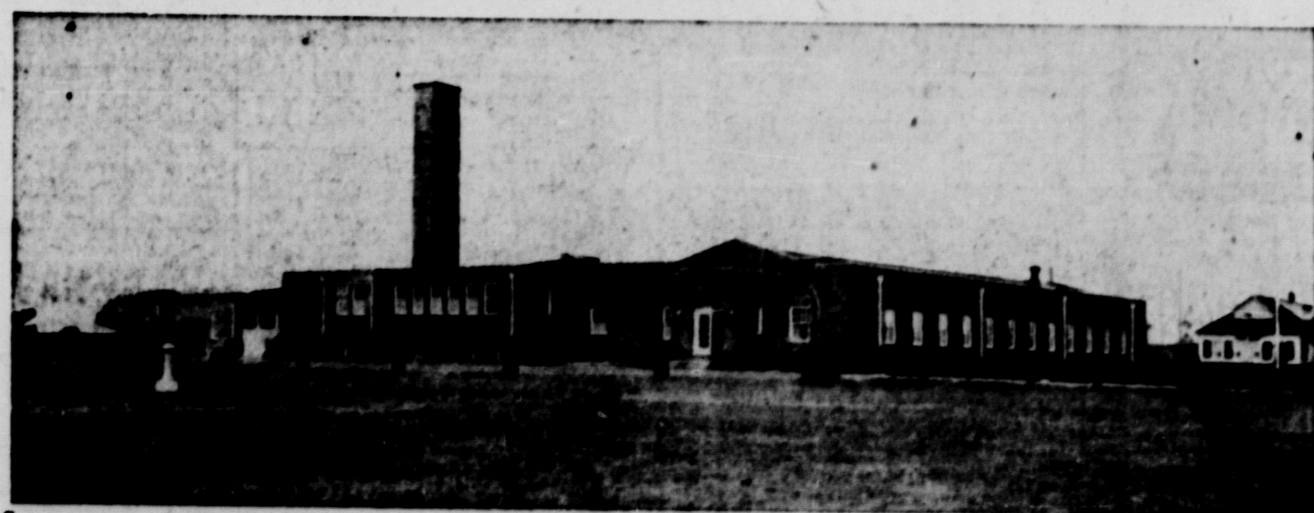

In celebrating their anniversary they are giving away $5,000 worth of sugar to their patrons this weekend. And everyone will receive a beautiful potted plant. There is also candy, bubble gum and balloons for the kiddies. Hundreds of items have been reduced for this sale.

"Safe Food Markets have always strived to keep the cost of living down in this area. Every item in these markets are sold with a money back guarantee. With the finest of meats and produce received fresh in the markets daily," says a spokesman.

TWO GIVEN AID

Mrs. Stella Gray, Bristol Pike, Cornwells Heights, is being administered oxygen through equipment of the Bucks County Rescue Squad. The squad removed Mrs. Slack, 620 Bath street, to Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia, last evening.

HARRIMAN HOSPITAL PURCHASED BY PHILADELPHIA PHYSICIAN

Sale of well known lower Bucks county institution consummated late yesterday and new owner, is in charge today. Plans enlargement and installation of new equipment. Hospital has been operated for approximately 32 years by Dr. George T. Fox.

By the Rev. Curtis L. Loux
Pastor
Oaklithurst Chapel, Penndel

And he called the name of the place "Bethel" (House of God). Man develops a physical hunger, which is satisfied by eating physical food. Man develops a spiritual hunger which must be met by partaking of spiritual food. This can be done by reading the Word of God and by coming to Him in the secret place, and communing with God our Father through His Son Jesus Christ. Do you have a place where you meet God? He is the source of our strength. For in Him we live and move and have our being. Man independent of God is worthless.

Party, Buffet Supper Form A Celebration

Linda Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Summers, Fleetwing road, was the guest of honor at two social affairs on Saturday, in celebration of her 8th birthday anniversary. In the afternoon a party was held with games played. A large "surprise pie" was the center of attraction which held a prize for each guest. Refreshments were served in a setting of pink and blue, with Japanese lanterns used. Favors were candy filled baskets.

Those attending: Gretchen Ramer, Richard Zaehring, Eileen Cox, Ethel Adams, Bristol; Lee Lambert, Kenneth, "Kathy" and "Peggy" Walterick, Fleetwing Estates; Gail Doster, Morrisville; and Nancy Allen, Trenton, N. J.

In the evening a buffet supper was served to: John Summers, Norman White, Tullytown; Mrs. Martha Murray, Miss Helen Murray,

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Nevec, of Ann Harbor, Mich., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kelso, 331 Monroe street. Richard and Robert VanAken, Holmesburg, also spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Kelso.

I. Grow and daughter Helen, of Philadelphia, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Horace States, Mifflin street, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bevins, Bath street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Grow, Market street spent Sunday at Bordentown, N. J., visiting Florence Gosline, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Houseworth.

3 NEW 4-H'ERS

NEWTOWN, Oct. 24—Three new members were received in the Newtown 4-H Club, Thursday evening, at the home of Brenda Janney, namely: Charlotte Satterthwaite, Elaine Shanahan and Marjorie Hill.

Twenty-five attended the meeting, at which time Mr. Rothrock, county advisor, talked on the baby beef project, and the scarcity and need for growing of the beef. The week of Nov. 3rd is National 4-H achievement week and Newtown club decided to sponsor a membership drive, also to prepare history of this year's work for publication.

The committee includes Joanne Taylor, Gay Yeager and Kathleen Taylor. Warren Buckman was appointed group leader to replace Carol Niedhart, who resigned. Members were asked to take a used toy to the next meeting, with the fixings, these rebuilt toys to be used for Christmas for Christ Home.

Interesting Lecture Program Presented

don will supplant the grimmia. Later a fern moss, thuidium, will find the soil sufficient for it. Next a polypoid fern will take root—only to find shortly that a hemlock seedling is its neighbor. "All this succession because of the moss," he remarked.

Dr. Moul displayed on the screen a map of Pennsylvania showing the distribution of mosses. Hypnum is typical of the cool mosses of Pennsylvania's icebox areas. Leucobryum is everywhere in hickory woodlands, and in the coastal plain the atrichum, formerly listed as cathartea, is most vigorous. "A hand lens is needed to enjoy the wonderful structure of mosses—the capsule, the calyptra, the operculum and the peristome. Protonema is the first growth that is produced from a spore. Moisture is necessary if the gemmae is to produce a plant. The strange partnership of fungus and alga to produce the many types of lichen was described as well as the life story of liverworts and jungermanniales."

Dr. Walter M. Benner, a former resident of Bucks County, now an instructor in biology in Philadelphia schools, and a research associate of the department of botany, Academy of Natural Sciences, spoke briefly of his plant research in New Mexico and on the Labrador coast. He had also come upon a new panicum grass in Hunterdon county, N. J., and a new blackberry near Oxford Valley, Bucks county. He found a new knotweed in the Andalusia area. This had been found once before in Chester county and once in Delaware county. Mr. Benner is the author of "Flora of Bucks County."

The new eighth edition of Gray's Manual was shown and reasons for its issuance given. The first edition prepared by Asa Gray appeared in 1849. Dr. Liberty Bailey is believed to be the only surviving student of Asa Gray in his Harvard classes. Each time a new edition was gotten out—the area covered was enlarged and the number of species described increased. The seventh edition of 1908 was the cooperative work of Benjamin L. Robinson and Merritt L. Fernald, both Harvard professors. Since then, Dr. Fernald, with the presidents and Fellows of Harvard as backers, worked to enlarge still further the area covered (in Canada and in swampland and Virginia coast plains). He also aimed to combine the American code used by Britton and Brown and the International Code which Gray used.

Lester S. Thomas had as his topic "Naturalists Whom I Have Known." He paid tribute to several men and women who had been his teachers in various lines of nature study but it was one life in particular which had made most imprint—that of Ernest Thompson Seton, who died six years ago at the age of 86 at his home at Santa Fe. When a boy he was tubercular, later he was crippled with arthritis, but he was enabled to recover and to lead a full life. With Dan Beard he got the Boy Scout movement started in this country and prepared the first Scout manual. He popularized the "Mark" study of birds. He wrote of Indian lore, wild food materials, organized games, made drawings, lectured, wrote in all 50 books. "Wild Animals I Have Known" is perhaps the best known. The Harris sparrow and the Solitary Sandpiper were two of his special contributions. Mr. Seton, having lived in the New England area and then in the southwest, covered a wide field for bird study and other wild life.

Mr. Thomas made a report on having seen a bird seldom noted in this state. In fact, Peterson says it is rare in this country. Mr.

Thomas, however, said New England and the Jersey coast have both listed rare glimpses of this bird—the Ruff or (Reeve), a water bird somewhat resembling yellowlegs. The striking ruffs and ear tufts are distinctive.

Discuss Cost of A Proposed New School

Stanley Zerbe, formerly of Phoenixville, to teach history at Nesaminy high school. Dr. Heckman and Miss Tompkins Baxter, elementary supervisor, made their monthly reports to the board.

Report was made of an increase of 100 elementary pupils over that of a month ago, and it is anticipated 200 more elementary pupils are expected next year. A bid for 12,000 gallons (annual supply) No. 5 fuel oil was awarded to Jesse Terry, Feasterville. It was decided to convert from coal to fuel oil at the high school building in Langhorne. Bids will be requested as soon as specifications have been prepared.

The board members decided not to include basketball as an interscholastic sport this year, due to the high expense of transportation. In the past, the boys were transported to the Rohm & Haas Club house, Bristol, for practice and the girls to Y. W. C. A. in Trenton, N. J., and games were played in other school gymnasiums.

HULMEVILLE, Oct. 24—Dr. N. P. Larson presided over a meeting of Hulmeville school board held last evening in Hulmeville school house.

Bills were ordered paid. Three members of the board present, Mrs. Willard Bartoe, Edward Linforth, and Dr. Larson, considered how Hulmeville school fits into the picture in building the new joint Nesaminy school. The three members later attended the joint meeting of Nesaminy school board at Langhorne.

Awarding of Prizes For Costumes Follows March

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Oct. 24—A meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary, Cornwells Fire Co., No. 1, was held on Monday, Mrs. Edward Dyer presiding.

This being a Halloween party, a grand march was held. Prizes were awarded to Miss Doris Freas, Mrs. Norman Werden, Mrs. Harry Melbie, and Mrs. Samuel Loucks. Prayer was by chaplain, Mrs. John Whyte. Minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Norman Werden, and report given of the treasurer, Mrs. Roscoe Perkins. Report of October luncheon was $36.50 cleared. A donation is to be sent to Needlework Guild of America.

At the next meeting "Pollyanna" will be chosen for Christmas. Hostesses for next Nov. 26th will be Mrs. William Amick, Mrs. Raymond Barroll, Mrs. Glenn Cobleigh and Mrs. William Campbell.

A meat loaf luncheon will be served on Nov. 15th at 12 noon. A Christmas party will be held in the fire station on Dec. 16th. Refreshments were served to 22. Hostesses were: Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Werden, Mrs. John Whyte, Mrs. Perkins, Miss Dorothy Van Sant, Mrs. Van Sant.

engineer until the time of his death in 1937.

In World War I, Mr. Stackhouse served with a machine gun battalion overseas. After the war he became an active member of Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, in Bristol. He was also a member of the Edgely Rod and Gun Club, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers; New Jersey and Pennsylvania Beekeepers' Association; Buckeye Division of the Veterans Association and the Camden YMCA. Throughout his lifetime he attended Emilie Methodist Church.

Mrs. T. Russell Stackhouse, who, together with her husband, has presented the memorial, was the wife of Lester Stackhouse. Her present husband was his cousin and lifelong friend. T. Russell Stackhouse is superintendent of Pennsylvania Manor, summer home of William Penn. He is presently acting as a lieutenant on one of the teams in the hospital building fund's community campaign.

The Stackhouse memorial was first announced at Monday night's report meeting. Serving as an incentive to all workers at the meeting, the announcement was greeted with loud applause from all present.

In accepting the subscription, Mr. Harris stated: "It is especially gratifying to see the hospital fund's memorial plan utilized to honor a man known in this area. Lower Bucks County has been fortunate in having citizens of the type of the Stackhouse family, and it is fitting that the present residents of the area be reminded in their hospital of their past community leaders."

Harriman Hospital is Sold To A Phila. Physician

some rooms to the maximum degree."

Dr. Kramer further states that all nurses on the staff are to be registered nurses. At present he states there are three nurses at the hospital. "We plan to serve the best food obtainable," he continued.

The hospital is being continued without interruption.

Dr. Fox has been operating the hospital for approximately 32 years. Dr. Kramer has been practicing since 1935.

The Harriman Hospital was built by the United States Emergency Fleet Corporation during World War I. It was constructed for the purpose of giving treatment to the employees of the government shipbuilding plant, which then was on the site now occupied by Kaiser Metal Products, Inc., plant No. 1. At the close of the war the hospital was for a time operated through the cooperative efforts of a group of physicians. Later Dr. Fox purchased the building and equipment. The building was renovated and on July 15th, 1922, Dr. Fox formally opened the institution for reception of patients.

Dr. Fox, who has been a practicing physician for 41 years, confirmed the sale this morning. He states that he does not plan to be on the hospital staff, but will continue his private practice.

the constitution, so as to permit Philadelphia to overhaul and rebuild its government, and thereby seek the economies and efficiencies which have long been promised by the supporters of this project.

Consolidation of the city-county government in Philadelphia is a necessary first step to any program of carving down the overhead of government, refinancing the city's fiscal burdens, and paving the way for eventual reduction or repeal of the much disputed wage-tax.

When you vote November 6, be sure to vote for the city-county consolidation amendment.

Inform of Changes In Reading Teaching Method

CROYDON, Oct. 24—Mr. Botel, new reading consultant for Bucks Co. schools, spoke to Croydon Parent-Teacher Association members, last evening, in Croydon school house. He told how the method of teaching reading has changed in the last 30 years.

Ernest Hamilton presided, and he called on Mrs. Howard Taylor to read the 23rd Psalm.

Mrs. Alice Fullam and Howard

Taylor, Democratic candidates for school directors, spoke briefly on their qualifications for office.
